

That Lonely Feeling

We all go through different seasons in our lives and I am going through one right now and at times, it makes me feel ever so lonely.

After my Dad's passing, I was given his small poetry book that contained many heart felt poems written by him. There was one poem that stood out from the rest helping me to realize that my own mom and dad had also gone through this season and that in itself, brought to me much comfort

Here is his beautiful poem ...

That Lonely Feeling
It's funny when your children leave
And Mom and Dad is alone
You think of all the happy days
When they were all at home

There was the good days and the bad days
As they grew up inside your heart
We really didn't know it then
We know it now ... since we're apart

I wonder if all the Moms and Dads
Feel that lonely - emptiness
I wonder if my Mom and Dad
Felt ... Felt like this

It's nice to see them call around though
It's like the sunshine after the rain
For that lonely empty feeling
Disappears ... when they come home again

I can see my Mom and Dad smiling down from Heaven and saying to me ... now ... it's your turn to embrace this season in your life for it's all part of the wonderful life that the Good Lord has Blessed you with!!!
